Professional Learning Model

We design our courses to elevate professional growth and impact, which are the heart of our framework. Teaching Channel recognizes the learning process as an ongoing cycle characterized by the following key phases:

Course Content

EVOLVE Courses are self-paced and relevant, with resources that include a solid balance of research and applicability. All courses feature video clips, articles, and interactive elements to enhance and support learning. Participants will engage in the following:

- Activate prior knowledge in order to establish new learning goals.
- Access research-based resources and materials to deepen your understanding and broaden your skillset.
- Assess new learning with a Knowledge Check formative assessment.
- Complete activities to implement new learning in the classroom or school setting.
- Engage in student-to-student interaction in a discussion forum.
- Reflect on professional growth and consider the potential impact of newfound knowledge and skills.

To receive a Letter of Completion, participants must complete a Final Assessment and score 80% or higher.

New Teachers: Foundations of Culturally Responsive Teaching

Course Number: 236_25 | 3 Hours

This document is an outline of the course requirements and is subject to change.

Course Description

This course provides new educators with the foundational knowledge and strategies to cultivate a culturally responsive classroom where all students thrive. Participants will gain the tools to identify their own biases, develop cultural competence, and actively disrupt systems of inequity to build a truly inclusive and empowering learning environment.

Course Objectives

1. Define Culturally Responsive Teaching, explain its core principles, and discuss its potential benefits for diverse student populations.
2. Analyze personal experiences and develop strategies for interrupting bias in teaching practices.
3. Explore Culturally Responsive Teaching practices and plan strategies that create a more inclusive classroom environment.

Course Materials

This course does not use a textbook. All required articles and resources are linked within the course modules.

Important! Courses are completed 100% online within the learning management system. You should have access to a compatible web browser (such as Google Chrome, Microsoft Edge, Apple Safari, and/or Mozilla Firefox). While our course platform does support mobile devices, for the best user experience, we recommend using a desktop or laptop computer to complete courses.

Course Delivery

All coursework will be completed and submitted online within the learning management system. Log-in to your account at www.teachingchannel.com to access your online course and view additional details for assignments.

- Explore a variety of educational resources, videos, and additional tools necessary for successful course completion.
- Complete module assignments including reflective journaling, opportunities to demonstrate new learning, and engagement in the discussion forum.

Grading & Feedback

Once you have successfully passed the Final Assessment (80% or higher), your Letter of Completion will be accessible on your Account page (after a few hours). Visit teachingchannel.com to sign into your Account.

Collaboration

Collaboration is a key component of the learning experience, designed to promote a supportive and inclusive learning environment where diverse perspectives are valued and respected. Teaching Channel asks learners to interact with their peers through discussions, participate with colleagues in collaborative assignments, and engage with embedded tech tools.

Academic Integrity

While collaboration is encouraged, each learner must complete their own assignments and assessments individually, ensuring the integrity and originality of their work. Any instances of academic dishonesty, including plagiarism or unauthorized sharing of work, will be addressed in accordance with Teaching Channel's Collaboration and Plagiarism Policy.
